I got a call from Rebecca Ballhaus with the WSJ last night and referred her to press@epa.gov.

I'm not sure who received this. Our usual reply is "EPA does not comment on potential on ongoing enforcement actions."

Do you all want to handle (or have you already)?

Subject: HuffPost inquiry // President Trump on San Francisco and Los Angeles

Hello,

President Trump said this evening that the EPA would soon be giving Los Angeles and San Francisco a "notice very soon" for an environmental violation related to the city's homeless populations, specifically mentioning used needles flowing into the ocean.

Can the EPA provide more context about what violation the agency plans to issue to the two cities, when it would be issued and what kind of enforcement efforts the agency would mandate?

Thank you,

--
